President's Welcome

Welcome to Phoenix for the 2018 Annual Meeting of the Social Science History Association. Many of our panels this year focus on the theme “Histories of Disadvantage: Meanings, Mechanisms, and Politics.” The theme of unfair disadvantage has animated investigations of differences within and between groups, across racial, ethnic, socio-economic, and geographic lines. These areas of disadvantage have intersections with collective commitments to gender, sexuality, status, faith, and flag. Indeed, those contemplating the controversies of our day would do well to consider the analytic lessons of history and social science.

We owe a great debt to this year's program committee, Barry Eidlin (McGill/Sociology), Damon W. Mayrl (Colby/Sociology), and Linda S. Reeder (Missouri/Women and Gender Studies), who worked closely with the Network Chairs to assemble a rich set of panels. We are also grateful to Alex Kindel (Princeton/ Sociology) who was instrumental in our redesign of our website (ssha.org) and our new Twitter handle: @socscihist. No conference better demonstrates the excitement of interdisciplinary scholarship than this one. Our program includes cutting-edge scholarship by demographers, economists, geographers, historians, legal scholars, philosophers, political scientists, sociologists, urban planners, and others. Our journal Social Science History includes these contributions and more.

We are grateful to all who donate to the Social Science History Association. These donations largely support travel awards for promising graduate students to present at the conference as well as a prize for the best graduate student paper at the annual meeting. Graduate students are both vital to the association's present and constitutive of its future, so donations to the Association are most welcome. We hope to do more in the future for graduate students and other scholars committed to our shared enterprise. Finally, please join us on Saturday evening for the Business Meeting, which includes our awards ceremony, and the Presidential Address. These are followed by the President's Reception, co-sponsored by Princeton University.

SSHA Membership

The Social Science History Association is an interdisciplinary group of scholars that shares interests in social life and theory; historiography, and historical and social-scientific methodologies. SSHA might be best seen as a coalition of distinctive scholarly communities. Our substantive intellectual work ranges from everyday life in the medieval world – and sometimes earlier -- to contemporary global politics, but we are united in our historicized approach to understanding human events, explaining social processes, and developing innovative theory.

The term “social science history” has meant different things to different academic generations. In the 1970s, when the SSHA’s first meetings were held, the founding generation of scholars took it to reflect their concern to address pressing questions by combining social-science method and new forms of historical evidence. Quantitative approaches were especially favored by the association’s historical demographers, as well as some of the economic, social and women’s historians of the time. By the 1980s and 1990s, other waves of scholars – including culturally-oriented historians and anthropologists, geographers, political theorists, and comparative-historical social scientists -- had joined the conversation.

New intellectual directions continue to emerge at the outset of the 21st century. Today’s SSHA incorporates a diversity of scholarly styles, with lots of crosstalk among them.

Information regarding SSHA membership is available at <http://ssha.org>.

SSHA Journal

Social Science History, the journal of the Social Science History Association, is published quarterly and is sent to members of the association. Submissions are invited via the online platform supported by Editorial Manager. To submit an article, please visit www.editorialmanager.com/ssha. Further information can also be obtained by contacting socialsciencehistory@mit.edu.
